"Court by Girls" is a comedy opperetts which has as its stage setting a regulation courtroom in which indee, jury, attorneys and attaches are women who are trying a man for breach of promise. The book and lyrics were written by Thomas Gray, while Max S. Witt is the producer and musical composer. The situations are extremely funny and the musical hits are declared to be of the most whistley variety. Taken as a whole, "Court by Girls" should be a decided hit in Salt Lake.

What may be justly termed a startling novelty for vaudeville is "Nature's Nobleman," which is one of the striking features of the new bill. The Walter N. Lawrence players will present what is declared by many critics one of the greatest delineations of the character of Abraham Lincoln known to the American stage. The scene of the piaylet is laid of snappy dialogue and special songs and dances. Much may be expected of this clever pair, as both have been connected with a number of the most successful of musical comedies.

Two of the best Italian character impersonators that ever toured the Suilivan & Considine circuit are Anthony and Ross. In the hands of these talented boys the character of the Italian becomes a classic.

Piccolo Midgets are a rare combination of acrobatics, pugilistics and laughter. They are three tiny Tom Thumb comedians who appear in the garb of Salvation lads and alterwards appear as burlesque athletes. The size of the little performers and their antics is so absurd as to make everyone laugh heartily.

Robert Carter and Kathryn Waters, presenting "In Vaudeville," are without doubt one of the best mirth-provoking duos which has traveled over this way in some time. Besides double turns each has a single in which a pre-suffragette speech by Miss Walters and an anti-woman suffrage elucidation by Carter exercise the risibilities of the audience to the limit.

Miss Dorothy Vaughn, one of the particularly bright stars of "Madame Sherry." has entered vaudeville with some clever new songs and just now is scoring the big hit of her career on the Pantages circuit. She will be on the new bill which begins today. None of Miss Vaughn's songs has been heard in local vaudeville and she has a wardrobe that will attract the admiration and enthusiasm of the fair sex.

The Pantages theater offers an extra act for Wednesday only—Murray's Educated Horses—making seven acts. Two of the most cleverly trained horses ever shown in this section of the country are those owned by L. Covington, proprietor of the Regal livery stable of Murray. Mr. Covington boasts of having two of the best trained educated horses in this country. They are Queen and Trixie, two beautiful iron gray mares weighing over 1000 pounds each and about nine years old. The animals were raised in Salt Lake county and have been trained to their high state of education by the patient work of Mr. Covington of Murray and Oscar Fulliner of Riverton.

There will also be new first-run motion pictures and the usual interesting musical programme under the direction of Claude J. Nettleton.

Miss Morton, who is presenting "Finding the Family" at the Orpheum this week, is the youngest of the famous Four Mortons, who are known the country over as a standard vaudeville headliner, although they have never appeared in Salt Lake. The team was originally made up of father, mother, brother and Miss Morton. After years together the daughter has now launched out for herself with the assistance of Frank Sheen, who plays the role of the detective in the sketch and finally produces the missing three members of the family in motion pictures.
